NOT TRYING TO REVIVE ISSUE

Senator Teller Considers Gold Standard Fixed for at Least a Generation.

LETTER TO FRIEND FREWEN

NO APOLOGY TO MAKE FOR WHAT IT CONTAINED.

Washington, Dec. 22.—Referring to the publication of a letter written by him on the financial question to Sir Moreton Frewen, Senator Teller said today that he had no intention of reviving the silver question, but that his only purpose had been to call attention to the present conditions of exchange between Europe and America on one side, and Asia on the other.

"The question of exchange," he said, "is one of world-wide importance, and there has come to be such a divergence between prices in the gold-using and the silver-using countries that the situation is growing somewhat acute. It is so much in evidence that any one who gives the least attention to financial questions must observe it. Hence I make no apology for my reference to it in a personal letter to Mr. Frewen."

No Cause for Astonishment.

"I do not see," he continued, "why any of the members of the monetary commission should be astonished in my utterance, as some of them are represented by the newspapers to have been, myself in my letter did not purport to be written on behalf of, or to express the opinion of the commission. For the last twelve years I have corresponded more or less with Mr. Frewen as to the monetary condition of Europe and the condition of the exchange between Europe and the United States and Asia. He is a gentleman well informed on all these questions. When he visits the United States, he always calls on me, and we have discussed these questions very freely."

Justified in What He Wrote.

"I did say in my letter to him that the commission would hear him at a proper time, and I have no doubt it will. I was justified in this because the commission had sent a portion of its membership to Europe in search of information as to the monetary systems of the world and the conditions of commerce and finance of those countries."

"The members who went to Europe certainly acquired a fund of information that will be useful not only to the commission but to the country at large. I practically stated that I was speaking for myself as to what I supposed the commission would do. I have understood that the object of this commission is primarily to obtain information as to the monetary condition of the world and ultimately present that information to congress with or without its recommendation as it may deem proper."

The Goschen Plan.

"I did not indicate that the commission was considering or would consider the Goschen plan for small notes of ten shillings or twenty shillings, nor that I was for it. Goschen was a monetarist of the extreme type. His proposition was based on the idea that the small notes, legal tender for ten dollars only, would make use of some silver and that would enable the government to accumulate gold. This was not accepted by the silver people either in Europe or the United States. Personally, I think there is sufficient merit in the Goschen plan to justify the commission in considering it."

Gold Standard Fixed.

"As a member of the commission, I do not propose to attempt to interfere with the legislation of 1896 which established the gold standard in this country. I consider that question settled for at least a generation, but even though the finances of the United States be fixed the question of exchange between this country and others is not settled, and I do not believe that the commission is barred from its consideration."

JOHN COLLINS PARDONED

Governor Hoch of Kansas Believes the Young Man Was the Victim of a Plot.

Topeka, Kan., Dec. 22.—Governor Hoch late this afternoon pardoned John Collins, now serving a life sentence in the Kansas state prison for the murder of his father, Joseph Collins, a well-to-do real estate and insurance man, in this city in May of 1898. Collins will be free on Christmas day. Governor Hoch believes Collins innocent.

The Collins case was one of the most remarkable criminal cases in this part of the west. Young Collins was a student at Kansas university at the time of his father's death. He was convicted upon the testimony of three negroes, all of it being circumstantial in character. At the trial the state set up the plea that Collins was in love with Miss Frances Babcock, a wealthy young society woman of Lawrence, Kan., and that Collins planned the killing of his father that he might gain life insurance which the senior Collins carried upon his life. One of the negroes upon whose testimony Collins was convicted has since written a book, asserting that the testimony of the three negroes at the trial was part of a plan of enemies of young Collins to ruin him by fixing the responsibility for his father's death upon him. The elder Collins was found dead in bed one morning after a visit to his son in Lawrence.

Oriental Rug Sale is Booming.

The quest for the unusual in Christmas gifts is gratified by a visit to the Oriental Art Shop. There an assortment of far eastern art, the equal of which has never before been shown in this city is on display at the prices generally asked for ordinary machine-made goods. It behooves any one looking for truly high-class presents to go to 74 East Third South, where the display and sale is under the direction of the importer, S. J. Nicholas.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY.

We do not guarantee to get positions for every one, but we have qualified a great number of young people for better places in life. Already scores of our students are managing business enterprises, and hundreds of others are holding positions of trust. Our students are in demand because our courses qualify—ask the business men.
